

7 DIE, 9 HURT IN BUS CRASH

Today

Gay New Year Eve.

Din, Sin, and Gin.

Children Have a New Game.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE learned Prof. James Mac-kaye, of Dartmouth, brings forth a new theory of the universe, pushing Einstein and rela-tivity into the background.

The universe possesses a radiation of super-frequency and super-penetration, pervading all space.

The ether, which Einstein eliminated, returns, but it is a dynamic, not a static ether.

THAT deep news interests a few.
Secretary Mellon says 1930 will be a super-year, money abundant, interest rates low, business good.

That interests everybody, violently.

Infinite time, space and ether will take care of themselves.

NINETEEN THIRTY is four days old.

Not fewer than a million good resolutions have been broken, more breakage will come later. But enough resolutions will be kept to provide the usual annual improvement.

New Year's Eve throughout the country shed the usual light on prohibition, many prohibition raids, many arrests, unlimited whisky,
gin, etc.

A MOVING picture
ment invites you to see an all talking, singing and laughing play that, to quote the promoter, "shows amazingly girls to hire, for the out-of-town buyers. The road to din, sin and gin. That road is wide open in this year of our Lord.

ONE newspaper describes New Year's Eve in New York as an effort to drown remembrance of martins wiped out, and in spite of defiant efforts of prohibition girls, as a "rather dismal, but doggedly drunken night."

AT PARTIES for young people, and the so-called "best society," a new game for children is played. The younger boys ask an older boy of sixteen or seventeen "what time is it," and watch the younger American hold his wrist watch before his eyes, and weave drunkenly to and fro,
trying to focus his bleary sight.
This seems delightfully amusing to the young boys.

For real information on youthful drunkenness, ask teachers in leading schools, Hill, Grotto, Lawrenceville, Saint Paul's Choate, etc.

A crop of drunkenness is being bred that will disgrace this country, and injure the young American generation as oppressive child labor in England injured British youth in the last century.

HOWEVER, New York, Chicago and other big wet cities are not all of the United States. In other places the nation's work goes on, as usual.

New roads, factories, dwellings, millions of automobiles are built, industries are perfected, even air-culture makes progress, with better machinery, and government credit.

LANCASTER, O., for instance, Mrs. Vincent Kemp had two sets of twins in 1929. The first pair came on January 4th, last. The second, on the last day of the year. That is the crop that counts and neither bootleg liquor nor drugs will ruin it.

BUT the American rich, bringing up boys to drink vile gin and whisky and girls to suck cigarette smoke through painted lips, would feel foolish if they could see their dear children, twenty-five years hence.

Her head was covered with a blanket.

The case was investigated by Mayor George S. Hardman and Chief of Police John Fultz.

The body will be taken to

HOOK-NOSED MAN ATTACKS G RLS

Cleveland Police are Searching for Nocturnal Prowler Who Has Been Terrorizing Women.

By International News Service.
CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—While a 16-year-old school girl lay sleeping in her room, a hook-nosed man just below her heart, police squads intensified their search today for a mysterious hook-nosed gunman, believed to be the same who has been terrorizing women in this city for the past month.

Miss Janet Blood, 15, was shot last night by a figure, sneaking nocturnal prowler, whom she described as having a hooked nose.

A few hours after Miss Blood was shot, Mrs. Mae Simpson, 18, was held up and robbed near her home. Police believe the same man is responsible for both attacks.

During the last few weeks at least three or four women have been accosted by the mysterious prowler-robber.

CAPITOL FIRE PROBE STARTED BY ARCHITECT

Rumors May Prompt Inquiry Move by Congress.

ARTIST RESCUED

Damage is Estimated
From $1,000 to $3,000.

By International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Official investigation into the fire which threatened the U. S. Capitol last night failed to throw much light today on the cause of the blaze.

It was determined, however, that the flames started in the model room of Charles Moberly, 61-year-old artist, who was carried out of the smoke-filled room partly unconscious and talking incoherently.

David Lynn, Capitol architect, in charge of the investigation, announced today that Moberly had admitted taking "couple of drinks" yesterday, but denied that he was intoxicated. Lynn also announced that Samuel Hall, an ex-Capitol policeman, was in the model room with Moberly about the time the fire started.

By International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A searching investigation into the cause of the mystery fire which gutted a portion of the house document room and the artist's model room of the national capitol early last night, was instituted today by David Lynn, architect of the capitol.

The damage was variously estimated at $1,000 to $3,000, but the full extent was not expected to be determined until during the day when danger of seepage of water through the five-foot walls of the capitol had passed.

Charles Moberly, the capitol artist, who was carried out of the smoke-filled model room unconscious, was reported to be recovering, and Lynn expected a conference with him today to furnish some information which may lead to a definite determination of the cause of the blaze.

The artist was treated by Dr.
George W. Calvert, congressional physician, for two hours after he was rescued by firemen. During this period he talked incoherently at times.

COMMUNISTS HIT OHIO LAW

Speakers at Rally Ask Syndicalism Act
Repeal.

Twenty-five men and women attended a Communist party rally in the Potters' hall last night preparatory to the circulation of a petition here calling for a referendum on the syndicalism law under which three Ohio persons were recently convicted and sentenced to terms of five to 10 years in the penitentiary.

The speakers were David Martin, Cleveland, representative of the state Communist executive committee, and a member of the anti-syndicalist law committee, and Roy E. Mahoney, of East Liverpool who recently made a study of labor social and economic conditions in soviet Russia. William Croxall presided.

"Three persons are serving prison terms in Ohio because they dared to express their opinions," Martin declared. "The syndicalism law is unfair legislation, designed to crush the man who attempts to defend his rights. It does away with freedom of speech.
It is our duty to work for the repeal of this despotic measure."

Arrangements were made for another meeting to be held in the Potters' hall, Tuesday, January 21.
A conference of local labor representatives will be called shortly.
Mahoney said today, to arrange for the circulation of the petition.
The local conference will be preceded by a state conference at which steps will be taken to set up an organization in practically every city of the state.

BLIZZARD HITS AIR HUNT FOR ARCTIC FLIERS

Below Zero Weather
Halts Flight of Two Planes.

PILOTS READY Rescue Airmen Will Hop When Storm Abates.

By International News Service.
FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 4.—
Below zero temperatures and a fierce arctic blizzard threatened today to further postpone the relief flight of two cabin planes to join the search for Lieutenant Carl Ben Elson and Earl Borland, mechanic, who disappeared in the arctic wasteland.

The two pilots, Pat Reid and Matt Nieminen, plan to take off for Nome, Alaska, as soon as the storm abates. At Nome they are to receive instructions as to the territory to be searched for the two airmen.

Doubt was expressed here as to whether Pilot Gifford Swartman, who crashed his airplane in a takeoff Thursday, can repair his plane in time to join the search.

Reid and Nieminen will have James Hutchinson, a mechanic, for a companion on their flight to the schooner Nanuk where the search centers.

Elson and Borland were last seen between Teller, Alaska, and North Cape, Siberia, when they were flying provisions to the ice-bound Nanuk.

TRAIN WRECKS OHIO SCHOOL CAGERS' COACH

Tragedy on Crossing
At Shreve, Near Wooster.

BOYS VICTIMS

Burbank's Basketball
Victory Joy Turns
To Sorrow.

By International News Service.
WOOSTER, O., Jan. 4.—The joy of a basketball victory turned to the deepest sorrow at the village of Burbank, near here, today, as it prepared to bury seven of its young boys, who were killed late last night when the bus in which they were riding was struck by a fast Pennsylvania train at the Shreve crossing, near here. Nine others were seriously injured in the accident.

First reports of the tragedy said that it occurred during a sleet storm. These were proved to be unfounded today, however, when investigating officials found that the crossing was perfectly dry.

28 Die In Three Crashes In Year

By International News Service.
Three major bus smash-ups on Ohio's seemingly crashjinked roads have taken a toll of at least 28 lives within the last year.

Two of these crashes—the one at Wooster last night in which the lives of seven school children were cut short,
and one at Eaton, Thursday in which two persons were killed—have occurred within the last three days, bringing the total of bus crashes for the week to three.

Strange similarity was seen today between the Wooster disaster last night and the tragic Bellevue, O., bus crash on January 22, 1929—just a year ago, lacking 19 days, or a day for each life that was taken in the Bellevue crash.

A high wind was tearing through the countryside at the time, however, and it may have prevented the driver of the bus from hearing the blasts of the train whistle and the crossing warning bells.

All of the bodies were badly mangled and identification was not made until today. The dead are:

WILLARD BAKER, 14.
CLAUDE REPP, 16.
FOREST GRUBB, 17.

WILLARD GRUBB, 16, Forest's brother.

WAYNE LEHMAN, 15.
EMIL TIMIC, 16.
EUGENE TALLEY, 17.

The nine injured are:
EDITH REPP, fractures of both legs, possible internal injuries, which will probably cause her death.

CHARLES PACKARD, back injuries and severe bruises.

DONALD LEHMAN, severe cuts
and bruises.

ALICE WEST, body injuries.

ELLEN COWICK, serious cuts
and bruises.

LOUIE TALLEY, a sister of one of the dead, broken leg.

GRACE FLORY, badly cut and bruised.

MAURICE LENZ, coach of the basketball team, scalp injuries.

JOSEPH BAKER, 55, the driver of the bus, serious cuts and shock.

PAY PERSONAL TAX, IS HINT

Penalty Added if First Half Bill is Deferred.

LISBON—Some confusion has resulted in the interpretation of a law enacted at the last session of the legislature having to do with the collection of personal property tax. The new law provides that when the first half of the personal property tax is not paid during the December settlement, a penalty of 10 per cent is added to the full amount due and payable at the June tax period.

When the first half is paid promptly, no penalty will be added to the second half which is due in June.

Section 2637 of the General Code as amended by the legislature provides: "In all cases where the first half of the personal property taxes has not been paid by Jan. 20, the whole amount of personal property taxes for the current year, together with a penalty of ten per cent thereon shall be due and delinquent, the penalty shall be added by the county auditor, and the taxes and penalty forthwith collected by the county treasurer."

CHESTER SEEKS AUTO SIGNALS

Business Men to Raise Funds For Two Traffic Lights.

CHESTER—Chester business men are planning a musical show to raise funds for the purchase of traffic lights which will be placed at Third street and possibly at Eighth street, where the Lincoln highway enters Chester.

The sponsors will solicit the aid of the Board of Trade, the members of the Chester Woman's club, the Parent-Teacher association and other organizations of Chester.

The use of the traffic lights and Chester's need of such lights were explained by Chief of Police H. H. Pennington of East Liverpool to members of the city council recently.

As there is insufficient cash in the city treasury to warrant the purchase of the lights, the business men decided to present an entertainment and thus raise the funds necessary for the project.

The council points out that the increasing travel through Chester especially in the summer months, causes traffic congestion at Third and Eighth streets and does not give the residents here, who are driving off back streets into Carolina avenue at these two points, an equal chance with the heavy inflow of traffic which is usually almost continuous.

Seven members of council, including Grafton, who has qualified, will sit as judges of the recount while the actual tabulating is done by two representatives of each of the principals.

Probably 600 ballots will be recounted. The actual vote in the councilmanic contests was: Grafton, 253; Peters, 252. However, many ballots were not marked for over his protest. This notation, observers said, indicated that Grafton intends to appeal if council holds that he is not entitled to the place.

JAZZ PIANIST AND COMPOSER IN MUSIC TILT

Cadman All For Classical, Tiomkin, The Livelier Kind.

LINE UP FORCES

"Jazz Music Vapid"—Cadman; "Apple-sauce"—Tiomkin.

By International News Service. HOLLYWOOD—Which will you have: jazz music, or classical? Write Charles Wakefield Cadman or Dmitri Tiomkin about it. But don't tell them I told you to.

Cadman and Tiomkin recently elected themselves champions of the two opposed types of music, and are having a battle royal of statements. Each is marshalling arguments to overwhelm the foe.

Cadman is the defender of the classical. The famous composer, who was enticed to Hollywood to write musical scores for the cinema declares that "the motion picture industry will gain neither dignity or respect from the encouragement of jazz, which is a shallow and soulless mode of musical expression."

Tiomkin, pianist who is credited with being the first to play Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" in concert, counters with:

"On the contrary, modern jazz as composed today is a direct reflection of the spiritual as well as the mental life of the people. To say that modern jazz has no soul is to accuse the citizens of the world of being soulless, automatons—a condemnation which I think is unjust and ridiculous."

"Jazz music with its quick tempo reflects the activity of modern folk, their restless, quieting spirits, their hungry, dissatisfied natures."

The cinema center won't be outdone, and if fond parents elsewhere give their children big roadsters while the offspring are still in grammar school, Hollywood is still prepared to go them one better.

So Roger Gray, film player who came from New York in the great migration, presented his son Junior with a brand new expensive roadster, on the child's fourth birthday.

If Junior is a good baby, Roger promises to take him for a ride some afternoon.

On one set in a Hollywood sound stage, an old, bent woman, her gray hair disheveled, plodded through her bit in a picture. In another part of the building, on a larger, gayer set, a fair girl of nineteen laughed and sang before a microphone, playing her first role in talking pictures.

The two are mother and daughter, the one, Nora Cecil, with a past; the other, Dorothy Cecil, with a future. Just now, they are both scrub women in "Medals," while Dorothy appears in a minor role in "The Vagabond King."

Nora Cecil was nineteen, too, when she made her debut, three decades ago, on the London stage. She became one of England's most famous actresses. As leading lady in "Beauty and the Beast," she came to this country, and made her screen debut in 1916 at Fort Lee, New Jersey.

She now is playing the role of scrub woman in "Medals," while Dorothy appears in a minor role in "The Vagabond King."

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, will erect a new building for the Ministry of Justice.

PLAYED SLANG

Reproached Maids For Smoking And Male Attire.

By International News Service. PARIS—Girls would be girls, and just as bad girls as they are today, back in March, 1873, according to an old French revue, the "Courrier de Paris." Grandmothers who are wont to talk about the "good old times" will do well to re-read an article by Phillibert Audebrand.

"Women?" he asks, "are there still women in the good old-fashioned meaning of the word?" This was fifty-six years ago. "They seem to be endeavoring to be as little feminine as possible and no longer wear the fluffy, effeminate dressing-gowns so suitable to their sex, but have adopted a kind of masculine affair with vest and pockets on the sides."

"They have learned to fence, they play cribbage, smoke cigarettes (and it certainly won't be long before they take up cigars and pipes). They even want to have little sideburns and have affected them in the shape of tiny little ear-curls."

Monsieur Audebrand then goes on reproaching the fair sex for using slang.

OLD BLACK CROW IS NOT SO BAD; HE'S GOOD AT GOBBLING UP BUGS

"Black Sheep" of Feathered Tribe Wins Plaudits of Department of Agriculture.

By International News Service. WASHINGTON.—The lowly crow, chased, shot at, slaughtered and otherwise made miserable as a fugitive of man ever since soil was first cultivated, is having its good traits recognized after all.

Right on the heels of the end of the special session of congress, called mainly to provide aid to the farmers, the department of agriculture announces without hesitation its estimates of this "black sheep" of the feathers. Some interpret it as a mild slap at the farmer who has maintained all along that the crow is one of his worst pests.

The department said: "The misdeeds of which the crow has been convicted greatly outnumber its virtues, but these are not necessarily equal in importance. Much of its damage to crops and poultry can be prevented while the bird's services in the control of insect pests can ill be spared."

"At the same time no policy can be recommended that will allow the crow to become so numerous as to greatly accentuate its shortcomings. The crow has such great capacity for both good and harm that extermination of the species would have ultimate consequences no less serious than its overabundance."

The department has not gone off "half-cocked" on its opinion of the crow. It formed its conclusions after many years of observation on the fields where the bird holds sway, from testimony of farmers and from laboratory examination of the stomachs of 2,100 of the unfortunate creatures.

Here are the good traits of this oft-condemned bird as tabulated by the government officials—when it feeds on injurious insects, crustaceans, rodents and carrion, and when it disperses seeds of beneficial plants, it's working largely for the best interest of man.

But when this same crow destroys small reptiles, amphibians, wild birds, poultry, corn and a few other crops, molests livestock and distributes their diseases, and spreads the seeds of noxious plants "it is one of the farmer's enemies," the report said.

"That the crow does harm, that it is a species well able to take care of itself, and that its local control often is advisable are facts very generally recognized," the department continued. Approval by the department of local control measures, however does not carry with its approval of country-wide extermination campaigns or of intensively organized local drives against this bird.

"Biologists assert that such forms of control as side hunts have been known to do more harm than good since they frequently result in the destruction of innocent birds of many other species."

In short the department merely wants to present the status of the crow to the public. The laws pertaining to the bird in most states are satisfactory. These laws subject it to instant death when caught doing damage. Bounties and campaigns for wholesale destruction of the species are not recommended.

The government wants the farmer to be tolerable and does not want the crow exterminated because of its occasional valuable work.

How do you like your oysters? "Raw, with a little iodine in them," replies the knowing Parisian when he is not feeling up to scratch.

Feeding oysters iodine so that they may give health to those who are fed on them has been successful, Dr. Rene Loubatie informed the Academy of Medicine.

He treated a park of bivalves at Bordeaux with iodine and many an oyster rebelled. Patients suffering from anemia perked up immediately upon consuming a few oyster cocktails. None tasted nor suspected the presence of iodine in the seafood.

It is proposed to give a distinguishing mark to iodine-oysters so they will not be confused with their unstimulated brethren.

Need More School Buildings

Steps looking toward the submission of a bond issue for the erection of new school buildings to cope with congestion in many sections of the city are expected to be taken this year by the East Liverpool district board of education which will re-organize at a meeting Monday night.

Miss Florence Updegraff, former principal of the high school, who has been in close touch with school problems for nearly a half century, and John W. Vodrey, retired pottery manufacturer, who, too, has manifested deep interest in educational questions insofar as they pertain to his home city, are the new members. They will succeed C. A. Ferguson and Robert B. Stevenson.

Joseph T. Croxall, Fred Glenn and Dr. Collin Kinsey, other members of the board, are cognizant of the crowded condition of elementary buildings as well as the high school. And the incoming members are equally as well informed, for both Miss Updegraff and Mr. Vodrey have made a study of the problems. They are prepared to act intelligently upon the question of improving the educational facilities in the district.

Conditions are such that relief in the form of new buildings is necessary. The old board has taken the initiative in the movement by ordering the preparation of plans for the erection of a two-story addition to the Lincoln school on the Northside and also have authorized the employment of experts to make a survey to determine the actual needs of the school zone.

Congestion has necessitated the renting of a store room as a temporary school, while for two or three years scores of high school pupils have been housed in the Central building in Fourth street due to lack of accommodations in the high school.

No definite plan of action has been determined, but it is not improbable that one or two junior high schools — and two are needed — will be asked. Erection of these buildings would solve the problem of congestion in the high school and elementary buildings, for seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils would be enrolled in the new structures.

The people of the East Liverpool district are ready and willing to support any movement for the benefit of their boys and girls, the future citizens. And if the board of education emulates the example last fall of the trustees of the City hospital who fully explained the need of an additional tax levy, it is a safe wager that the new school building movement will win favor.

Campaign Promises

There is slight probability that the opponents of the MacDonald government in the house of commons will permit its defeat before the pending naval conference is completed, but a grave situation exists.

The MacDonald ministry escaped defeat only by the slender margin of eight votes on a matter of serious importance recently and a number of the favorable votes were cast by members who would have voted the other way but for the general desire to avoid another election at this time.

The shakiness of Premier MacDonald's government is very largely due to the dissatisfaction resulting from inability to redeem the roscate hopes held out for correction of unemployment, England's most serious problem. Previous to the election, votes were more important than common sense apparently and the people have chosen to take seriously the promise made in the excitement of the contest.

This dissatisfied element has a voice in a large left wing of the Labor party itself, including not only many members of parliament but many powerful Labor leaders outside. These leaders and legislators are in a position to create a very embarrassing situation, if they choose to make an open break.

It is entirely unreasonable to expect one government to effect a miraculous cure where others have failed and would fail under similar circumstances, but the dissatisfied workers do not detect that inconsistency. Perhaps they do not want to. They are interested only in better employment conditions and they want them now.

Students of the English situation are aware that an impossible situation exists. England is not suffering from a temporary lapse of activities. Her condition is the result of a serious collapse of her ability to compete with other countries in the industries upon which she has placed her greatest dependence in the past. The MacDonald government knew that it could not perform an Aladdin-lamp cure before it started, but it made the grave mistake of promising to do so and the voters can not be blamed if they become impatient.

Rewarding Honesty

Intelligent people know that honesty is the best policy, but frequently they are tempted to look about them and wonder why it isn't more apparent. They see honest men and women whose conscientious honesty throughout life has been rewarded only by a bare living. Beside them they see other men and women whose dishonesty may have brought them to enviable positions.

In the face of this apparent contradiction, the story of Mary Sullivan, maid in a New York hotel, is interesting. Recently she returned $2,000 in cash, which a guest had left under a pillow in his room. There were numerous opportunities for her to hide the money, but she did not hesitate to report it to the desk immediately. It is the fourth time in five months that she has been instrumental in returning large sums, the largest single amount being $40,000 worth of jewelry.

Honesty is not always the easiest course to take.

Frequently blind trust has to be placed in the belief that it is merely the best—a conclusion reached by millions of others after years of experience. For the one liberal employer who encourages honesty with consideration, there are a half dozen who recognize it only in the breach and attempt to maintain it by negative treatment. Corrective measures are used most frequently and the value of building helpful attitude by encouragement disregarded.

Especially when outstanding examples of honesty occur among the poor do they deserve special recognition. It is not difficult for the Midas to forbear from bettering himself by illegal means, but it seems impossible sometimes for the beggar to keep life together any other way. He needs help; he needs proof that it really pays to be honest when it hurts.

Man's age is now said to be 1,000,000 years. Women are not mentioned.

Helen Wills has always been pretty proud of her "poker" face, but a few years of married life may ruin her game.

SIGNING THE WORLD COURT PROTOCOL.

At a convenient time, as President Hoover informed congress in his annual message, he will seek the advice of the senate on the proposed and too long deferred entry of the United States into the International Court of Justice. For the statute establishing the court has been amended to meet the senate's reservations and more than meet them. But whatever reasons there may be for tactical consultation of the convenience of the leaders of the several groups in the senate, there was no reason for delaying the step which the executive himself was empowered to take in order to submit a proper proposal for senatorial consideration and action. That step was taken yesterday at Geneva when the American charge d'affaires signed the revised protocol of the world court.

Most advocates of peace and reason in international relations will commend the course of Mr. Hoover in ordering that action be taken. It does not commit the United States finally to membership in the court, but it is important as an unequivocal expression of the determination in favor of adju- use his legal and moral influence in favor of adherence to the tribunal which signally represents the principle of law and justice in international relations.

The published correspondence between Mr. Hoover and Secretary Stimson on the subject states the case for entry into the court with force and logic. The court is independent of the League of Nations. It is one of the agencies implied by the war renunciation treaty of Paris. It is a check upon aggression. It has performed valuable service and is capable of greater service to the cause of peace and world progress. It embodies American traditions and aspirations.

One the eve of another serious effort to promote reduction of naval armament the liberal forces of the world are heartened and the hands of constructive and peace-loving statesmen are strengthened by President Hoover's instruction to the state department in the matter of the world court. ## GETTING DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

New York Day By Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The fun-loving side of New York is so extravagantly stressed in the outland that one has to live here many years to appreciate the simplicity of the great majority. For instance, 80 per cent of theatrical attendance is transient trade.

A man close to the receipts in box offices is authority for the statement—and has figures to prove it—that the metropolis alone does not provide sufficient patronage to keep 12 theaters open during the season. And there are some 90 theaters to be filled.

The condition existing in the theater, of course, exists in the night clubs, cafes and cabarets. Among 100 "average New Yorkers," probably not more than a half dozen have ever visited the Casino, Sherry's or other such haunts—unless taken there by out-of-town friends.

The visitor sees the side wholly devoted to gaiety and wonders how we go such a pace. He does not realize that the crowds with which he is mingling are also from out yonder. Save in the movies, few New Yorkers are to be found in the Broadway zone after dark.

The great army of New Yorkers who dine out will be found largely in out-of-the-way tea rooms. Southern dinner places or neighborhood cafes where most of the patrons have a nodding acquaintance and are well known by the proprietors to be addressed by name.

Only a handful of locals are on the overflowing sidewalks in midtown when lights come on. The real New Yorkers have been battling traffic all day and if they walk it is in the public parks or along deserted residential streets.

Hale Hyers is the dapper leader of an orchestra in a jazz cafe. Every night of his season he slips into a dinner jacket and makes merry until dawn. But on April 1 he disappears into the wilderness of a Wisconsin woods where he browses upon leatherbound tomes and, save by his wife and dog, is not seen until mid-October.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

WILLIAM PLANT, of Waterloo street, showing the marks of intensive training at Fort Benjamin Harrison, of Indianapolis, Ind., where he has been allied with the artillery arm of the military service for the past four years, spent the holidays here. His work is with the guns known as the French 75's which in the World war were among those greatly used on all fronts of the heavy fighting. So far Mr. Plant has managed to return to East Liverpool about four times a year. He evidences the best of physical condition and particularly likes artillery tactics and the work incident thereto.

WORKERS and attendants will be interested in realizing that the initial movement for a Sunday school in America following the organization of a school in England by Robert Raikes was the attendance of thirteen persons in Philadelphia in 1790. This was three years after its launching in the mother country.

Before that there was a beginning of such activity in Halifax, Canada, in 1783. In June, 1930, three continents will celebrate the sesqui-centennial of the founding of the first Sunday school when delegates to the International Council of Religious Education will assemble in Toronto, Canada.

On that occasion a bronze statue will be dedicated to Robert Raikes. At the same time there will be erected and dedicated a similar statue for the former editor and layman in his home city of Gloucester, England, where he 150 years ago published the Gloucester Journal.

Both of these statues will be replicas of the famous one to Robert Raikes which stands on the banks of the Thames river at Victoria Gardens, London, England.

FORMER PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON ever regarded the number thirteen as his lucky one, if there is such a thing. It would seem that any superstition attached to the so-called "baker's dozen" has not affected the growth of Sunday schools. Just now, it is estimated, that there are 30,000,000 adherents of them in the world.

The dedication of the Robert Raikes statue in Toronto next summer is certain to give this sesqui-centennial an international tinge. It is further significant that the Toronto statue will be presented by the city by a former Canadian, J. L. Kraft, of Chicago, who is a leading superintendent of Sunday schools in the Lake City.

The city council of Toronto will furnish the site for the statue, its base and arrange its care in perpetuity.

WHAT approximates an Exchange day comprises much of the work for the most part in all East Liverpool stores as elsewhere on December 26 annually. It is unofficially so designated as much as the night of the 24th is devoted to dressing the Christmas tree and the next day is given to relaxation and the eating of chicken and turkey after gifts have been handed around.

Merchants and those associated with them aver that many of the gifts purchased in the pre-holiday rush carry the proviso of exchange, if necessary. This concession is largely a masculine one when husband and sweethearts buy for wives and those whom they would please. Not knowing sizes and the mysterious ramifications of the articles they elected to give it is almost necessary for exchanging permission. In the end this is done and finally all ends well. Women too find the same necessity in gifts to men. And the latter pilgrimage back the day after. It is all a preliminary to a rest of almost a year when the whole process is repeated again.

ONE of the recent arrivals in East Liverpool is a young man who came to Philadelphia, Pa., three years ago from Duisburg, Germany. He is Ferdinand Rhinestein. He is connected with a leading mercantile establishment here. His home town is located about an hour's distance from Cologne and Coblenz and is not far from the Holland line.

The place is also in close proximity to the famous Krupp ironworks in Essen, Germany. Because of this nearness, he with various members of his family had to spend hours during nights of the World war in the basements of their home dodging the bombs which French airmen were attempting to drop upon the manufacturers of Big Berthas and other guns.

He explained that these visits were almost nightly affairs whereas the visits of German airmen to London were but occasional. The reason, of course, was the continuing attempt to destroy the making of war material. He was permitted to see the late Kaiser first in 1911 when the latter came to his city to dedicate a bridge. He later saw him frequently. He has also often seen President Hindenburg, Field Marshals Ludendorff and Mackenson and Prince Rupprecht as well as the German Crown Prince.

In his city both American and French troops formed the army of occupation. He speaks highly of the treatment by American soldiers of the German people. But he declares the French were quite severe at times. As a boy he knows what it was to get off the streets early at nights and remain indoors even on hot evenings with the windows closed by reason of the orders of the Frenchman. However, an exception to the rule was found in a French captain who later was designated to live in his parents' home. He declares he was even a scoundrel and most considerate the family's wishes.

Mr. Rhinestein studied English in Germany and could speak the language before coming to America. He has been in East Liverpool two months and laughs heartily when his friends twit him about his healthy appetite which he declares the war and all the incidents connected with it did not in the slightest degree impair.

The memory of many East Liverpool adults can go back to days upon the farm when tables at dining time were "fairly groaning" with the viands that the then housewives had upon them for the various repasts of the day and when during the warmer seasons such would preside over them withwithe tree branches, well-laced, by which flies, in lieu of screened fastenings, were kept at a distance.

Now the tendency is for a bit of meat, a salad, a vegetable, some fruit and mayhap a pastry and what is considered a well ordered and balanced meal is accomplished.

Yet there are devotees of the former custom of cooking extant even in East Liverpool. To other Sunday a son sat down to a repast which his mother had prepared for him at mid-day. He had previously had breakfast and later partook of supper also. If memory serves, accurately, there were 22 different articles for him to address himself to.

There were four kinds of bread—white and brown, coffee cake and cinnamon rolls with jelly in their centers. The piece-of-resistance was beefsteak and mushrooms. The vegetables included baked potatoes, new peas, sliced tomatoes and celery. Freshly made plum jelly, cornstarch pudding and canned grapes constituted the fruit offerings of a certain kind to which was supplemented oranges, California grapes and bananas as a tropical variety of the same class of eating.

A variety of New York cheese had a prominent place upon the same menu which culminated with four kinds of cake: Chocolate, Coconut, Sunshine and Devil's Food. There was, of course, plenty of butter and coffee with its caffeine extracted.

Grapes, oranges and bananas with two kinds of cake are found in this young man's pockets daily as he starts to his work where he procures his own lunch. That which he is given to carry is for purposes of addition, if necessary, to that which he may essay eating during the interval which he may be away from home. With such a steady diet of which the above is a fair example there is no need to repine for days that are gone or those "way back upon the farm." And it all serves to remind the mothers, many of them, in these days do cook as did those of the past.

During the recent gale off the coast of Brittany lamps of several lighthouses were extinguished.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

WINTER days ought to have a really healthful and tonic effect upon us humans. If we would harden ourselves physically by vigorous exercise in the open air, and build up the tissues of the body so that we had proper resistance to the cold, then the Winter months would be most beneficial to us.

You make your home safe for Winter. You overhaul your heating plant, and you see that your house is in condition. You stock up on Winter clothes. Why not take inventory of your health? Have a physical examination?

Everyone should have a physical examination every so often. Have a physician look you over. He may find you "sound as a nut," or, if you have some slight difficulty that needs correction, you will be, or ought to be, very glad to know it. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is only too true in this respect.

It wasn't so long ago that people were afraid of night air and sunshine. Even today some have an aversion to open windows at night in their sleeping rooms. Everyone should know that wide open windows at night are health-giving and health-restoring. Cold air, wet air and wind are tonics for the well person.

Cold air, wet air and wind—they are all good for us. Everyone should get the habit of being outdoors in the sunshine at least an hour every day. Even the mothers and housewives who find their day's work almost more than they can cope with, owe it to themselves and their families to get outdoors part of every day in the year. If a day comes when you cannot get out of doors, open the windows wide for a few minutes at a time and air your living rooms. Let the invigorating Winter air flood your rooms from five to ten minutes and see how much better you will feel for it. It is a scientific fact that letting stale air escape from a room really creates a condition the better to warm it.

There are tonic effects of cold on a healthy body. All the organs of the body, the heart and the arteries, feel the thrill. The circulation in the brain is stimulated. You feel a sense of well-being. You can think better.

When you enter the warmth of indoors, the blood surges back to the skin in a warm glow; your entire body feels invigorated. If you walk for an hour or two daily, you will never find fault with the house temperatures if it goes down to sixty degrees.

While the fresh cold Winter air is most invigorating, do not forget the beneficial effects of sunshine.

CERAMIC BILL

Sherlock Holmes, the world renowned detective, waited until his 43rd birthday to make his first appearance in the all-talking motion picture. In 1887, Sir A. Conan Doyle presented him in his first story, "A Study in Scarlet." Many other popular tales followed.

Now this popular detective character will be seen and heard Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ceramic theater in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes." Clive Brook is cast in the role of the super man-hunter and you will meet most of the characters from the books, such as Sergeant Gipper, Dr. Watson, Moriarty and Solly Cheesecake.

The reason for "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" was the untimely murder of Captain Longmore, on the eve of his son's wedding to the daughter of Dr. Watson.

Holmes took up the trail which led him into the most thrilling adventure of his entire career, aboard a trans-Atlantic liner, then to New York.

In New York, Holmes found the murderers of Captain Longmore were international radio-tapping ring, of which Longmore was a member. He succeeded in bringing them to justice and seeing the happy wedding of the young couple.

"THE KISS" HIT
AT AMERICAN

Thrilled business men and wide-eyed business men will be equally entertained with "The Kiss," Greta Garbo's new starring vehicle at the American theater.

Every effort was made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to furnish Miss Garbo with a story, director and supporting cast equal to her position as one of the foremost screen actresses in America, and the results have been more than satisfactory.

Jacques Feyder, noted French director who produced Raquel Meller's "Carmen" and other artistic successes, was brought from France to write and direct a story for Miss Garbo. He wrote a Continental drama which gives the celebrated actress every opportunity to display her talent as a tragedienne.

Miss Garbo is fascinating in the tragic role of Irene Guarry, and is little less than magnificent in a powerful scene in which jealousy brings disaster to the French society family.

Conrad Nagel plays opposite Miss Garbo in the role of attorney and gives his usual finished performance. Anders Randolph as the suspicious husband gives an accurate portrayal of an unsympathetic role. The fact that you are glad to see him killed is a tribute to his acting. Lew Ayres, a new face to the screen, attracts considerable attention as Miss Garbo's lover, a role played skillfully.

LEATRICE JOY
COMES TO STATE

French pulchritude, daring and spice right from the Folies-Bergeres in Paris form a background for some of the most highly dramatic scenes of Leatrice Joy's latest picture, "A Most Immoral Lady," which opens at the State theater today.

The Parisian "It" comes in the form of a chorus of 30 beautiful French girls, real high-kickers from the Folies-Bergeres, who are shown off not only by daring costumes but through the use of some remarkable camera angles.

The scene represents the Muscovite cafe of Paris, one of the many colorful locales used in First National's lavish production of the sensational stage play by Townsend Martin.

Other beautiful backgrounds, filled with the color of modern society life, include New York City's play places and Palm Beach. Walter Pidgeon plays opposite Miss Joy in "A Most Immoral Lady," and Sidney Blackmer, Montagu Love, Josephine Dunn, Robert Edeson, Donald Reed, Florence Oakley and Willson Berge are importantly cast.

Nearly $15,000,000 is Spent for "Air"
Publicity.By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Tourist and other passengers travel and newspaper and magazine advertising during 1929, showed a material increase over the previous year, commerce department data revealed today, both items indicating the satisfactory trend of business.

Newspaper advertising was estimated to have increased about five per cent and advertising in magazines six per cent. For 10 months the cost of magazine advertising was $166,201,000 while there were 1,015,964,000 lines of advertising carried in the newspapers.

Radio, the comparatively new medium of reaching the public, showed a remarkable increase of 86 percent, and for this means of advertising $14,851,000 was expended.

The fact that newspaper and magazine advertising continued to move upward indicated that the radio method is not cutting in seriously on the printed means of getting to the buyer, according to officials.

National advertising showed a gain of 19 percent and a total of 504,748,000 lines in 10 months. The relatively larger gain in this form of advertising probably was due to the fact that chain store systems were growing more rapidly than local business and that national products were being more generally distributed owing to the concentration of commerce and industry into larger organizations.

Bishop Murder Case

Philo Vance Story of Mystery and Crime.

By S. S. VAN DINE

"YES, sir. He always uses the basement door; and he said good-morning to me as he passed the butler's pantry at the head of the steps."

"He returned the same way he came."

"I suppose so, sir—though I was upstairs when he went. He lives in the house at the rear . . ."

"I know," Markham leaned forward. "I presume it was you who admitted Mr. Robin and Mr. Sperling this morning."

"Yes, sir. At about ten o'clock."

"Did you see them again, or overhear any of their remarks while they waited here in the drawing-room?"

"No, sir. I was busy in Mr. Arnesson's quarters most of the morning."

"Ah!" Vance turned his eyes on the man. "That would be on the second floor rear, wouldn't it?—the room with the balcony?"

"Yes, sir."

"Most interesting . . . And it was from that balcony that Professor Dillard first saw Mr. Robin's body."

"How could he have entered the room without your knowing it?"

You said, I believe, that your first intimation of the tragedy was when the professor called you from the library and told you to seek Mr. Sperling."

The butler's face turned a pasty white, and I noticed that his fingers twitched nervously.

"I might have stepped out of Mr. Arnesson's room for a moment," he explained, with effort. "Yes, it's quite likely. In fact, sir, I recall going to the linen-closet."

"Oh, to be sure," Vance lapsed into lethargy.

(Copyright, 1929, By Charles Scribner's Sons.)

The Story Thus Far:

A man known as Cock Robin is shot through the heart with an arrow. The body is found on the archery range beside the home of Professor Dillard, where Robin was well known. The crime seems to be the intentional dramatization of the old nursery rhyme "Who killed Cock Robin?" District Attorney Markham is puzzled by the apparently senseless circumstances attending it and asks the aid of Philo Vance, wealthy young bachelor who dabbles in the solving of unusual mysteries. The police get on the trail of Sperling the last man known to have been with Robin. Vance in questioning Professor Dillard and his niece Belle Dillard, learns that both Robin and Sperling were in love with the girl and had been arguing over

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd entertained a number of little ones at their home Saturday afternoon in honor of their daughter Lou's birthday anniversary. Juvenile games were enjoyed by the little folks. Prizes were awarded to Lavenia Dawson, Gladys McBrien, Ruth Jones and Mary Alice Bayes. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Boyd, assisted by Mrs. Boyd of West Bridgewater. Vance learns practically nothing from the Dillard household, but Pyne the butler seems very much confused when questioned as to his whereabouts the morning of the murder.

CHAPTER 6.

Markham smoked a while, his gaze concentrated on the tabletop.

"Did any one else call at the house this morning, Pyne?" he asked presently.

"No one, sir."

"And you can suggest no explanation for what happened here?"

The man shook his head heavily, his watery eyes in space.

"No, sir. Mr. Robin seemed a pleasant, well-liked young man. He wasn't the kind to inspire murder—if you understand what I mean."

Vance looked up.

"I can't say that I, personally, understand exactly what you mean, Pyne. How do you know it wasn't an accident?"

"I don't, sir," was the unperplexed answer. "But I know a bit about archery—if you'll pardon my saying so—and I saw right away that Mr. Robin had been killed by a hunting arrow."

"You're very observant," Pyne, nodded Vance. "And quite correct."

It was plain that no direct information was to be got from the butler, and Markham dismissed him abruptly, at the same time ordering Heath to send in the cook.

"The Molded Silhouette"

PATTERN 1785

The Review 15c Practical Pattern

The molded silhouette is exemplified in this striking afternoon frock of velvet or satin. The long shirred bodice is extremely smart while the skirt flares gracefully in accepted daytime length. Tiny tucks on the shoulders give added fullness to the bust.

Design 1785 may be fashioned of solid color material, preferably black, tans, navy blue, brown or bottle green; or it may use a print with tiny colorful patterns splashed on a dark background. This model gives very slender lines to the figure.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26 and 28. Size 16 requires 41 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

THE NEW WINTER FASHION BOOK IS ready for delivery. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to The Review Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York City.

POTTERS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP OF CAGE BILL

Zookmen Conquer Warren Five, 18-12

Potter Maids, Reserves Also Win in Prelim Games; Coshocton Passers Invade City Tonight.

THE sting of the Warren Hornets was removed here last night as Zook's Potters captured the first of a series of two tough week-end encounters. The score was 18 to 12 and the game was one of the most brilliant defensive battles waged on the local court for many a day.

And while the victory was well earned and cleverly consummated by the wearers of the Blue and White, the local lads cannot afford to rest on their laurels because the longer they come the tougher they get.

It's Coshocton tonight and if you think these birds are anybody's pushovers, you can plank down your 50 cents, general admission 35c (Adv.) right where Mr. Decker can see it, and be convinced otherwise.

You'll remember the Coshocton boys took a 24 to 15 fall out of the locals in the Potters' second game of the season. It was another one of those defense exhibitions, the score being 6-6 at the half-way stage. But the Cornshockers mixed in a little offense in the final half and won the game.

They're big birds, rough, tough and rugged and very adept at the old court pastime.

Two other games are on the bill tonight, with McKinley and Lincoln grade schoolers battling in the curtain raiser at 7:30 o'clock. The East Liverpool Reserves will mingle with Nate Lorah's Nowell high squad in the second encounter at 8:30 and the principal event on the bill, of course, will be the return struggle of the Potters and the Coshoctonites.

Win Three Games.
The cold weather peppered up the Potter passers last night to the extent that high school cagers swept clean a three-game card.

The Reserves took the Seniors' measure in the opener, 18 to 8, and Miss Miller's girls made it unanimous with a 35-22 conquest over the Warren maids in the semi-final.

The Potters, possibly, could have carved out a few more points for themselves against Warren but, after the first period, they had a point margin all the way and, as a result, left the aggressive part of the program up to the Hornets. And the visitors dilly-dallied away a lot of precious moments trying to figure a method of penetrating the East Liverpool fortifications.

That they were very unsuccessful is indicated in the fact that the Hornets buzzed away with only four field goals and two of these were mid-court shots by Merrifield.

They were playing them close to the vest in the opening canto when the Warren combine held a 2-1 lead, the only lead they had during the engagement.

The Potters chalked up 11 points in the second period while Warren was getting five. The figures were six and two, respectively, in the third stanza and by this time the locals were comfortably in the van with a defense that constantly turned back Warren's drives.

Captain Harry McConville led the scorers of both teams, with two field goals and a brace of fouls for six points.

Points Are Scarce.
Reese and Bowen were on the forwards, with Chetwin at center and Lane and McConville at the guards as the battle started.

McConville got the tip, going up the floor, but the shot was short. DeSantis was fouled by Reese on a shot and scored the first point of the game on one out of two trials.

Two under-the-basket shots by McConville and Bowen were a little too hasty and rimmed off. Johnson gathered in another point when he was fouled by Reese. The Potters' passing temporarily was a little cockeyed under the

BUSH SHAKING UP WHITE SOX

Johnny Mostil, 10-year Veteran, Released Outright to Toledo Of A. A. Loop.

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — The opening shot in the looked-for reorganization of the Chicago White Sox was seen today in the return of Johnny Mostil to the minor leagues.

Mostil, a ten-year veteran in major league baseball, was released outright to Toledo by order of Donie Bush, new White Sox manager.

Billy Cook Puts Punch In Ice Game

Rangers' Star is Babe Ruth of Hockey World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—What Babe Ruth is to baseball, what Al Marsters is to football, what Pappy Ricks is to basketball, what Johnny Weissmuller is to swimming, and what Bobby Jones is to golf—Bill Cook is to hockey.

Step up and get acquainted with Bill Cook, the high scorer of the New York Rangers hockey sextet.

It wasn't the gorgeous Weber-Hellbroner Trophy, which was originated for the topmost scorer of the two New York teams this winter, that has accounted for the mess of tallying by Cook at this premature time, for Bill has always been a high scorer and selected this season to revert to the spectacular form he displayed three years ago when Cook and the Rangers made their debut.

But the manner in which Cook has utilized his skates as rods of lightning and his stick as a dynamite puck-slammer is all the more brilliant because of the fact that Bill is a notoriously tardy starter, usually uncorking his true form after a month of campaigning.

In the 1926-27 siege, Cook was the pace setter in tallying with thirty-three goals and four assists, totaling thirty-seven points. Last season found him winding up with fifteen goals, eight assists and twenty-three points—good enough to rank him in a tie for third highest scorer in the league, but nevertheless a repetition of the slump he had suffered the previous year, in comparison with his playing during his first Ranger outing.

Cook was born in Kingston, Ontario, and played his first big hockey contest with the "Greyhounds" Juniors. After his family moved to Sault Ste. Marie, Bill hooked up with the "Greyhounds" with whom he played until he turned pro and joined the Saskatoon "Crescents" in 1923. It was there his scoring potentialities were first revealed and his lofty tallying for two successive seasons so impressed the management of the Rangers that they had him transported to New York to help formulate the squad that was destined to raise such havoc among the hockey elite.

connected. Bowen relieved Ashbaugh. And Reese came back in with three and a half minutes to go.

Chetwin missed a sucker shot. But Joe, for some reason, was not on last night. Burke was fouled on a shot and made one of them. The score was 18-12 with two minutes to go, and remained that way until the final gun.

Steffan In Scoring Jamboree

Miller Maids Conquer Warren Lassies, 35-22.

STEFFAN 35, Warren 22.

Thus Miss Miller's high school girls recorded another decisive victory last night as they defeated the northern Ohio sextet on the local court.

It was Kate Steffan's big night. Winging shots from all corners of her half of the court, with two hands, one hand and maybe no hands (it seemed that way sometimes Steffan established a direct connection with the baskets at the first tip-off and from then on it was a busy line.

Of course, Miss Steffan's team mates share to a considerable extent in the glory of the conquest. Their passing was great and they confined the Warren forwards to nine field goals, which were three less than the local "shooting star" had all by herself.

The local lassies built up a 21 to 8 lead in the first half and then played on an even basis with the visitors in the last two periods.

The Miller combine had Steffan and Wooley on the forwards, M. Johnson and Cunningham in mid-court and Moon and J. Johnson on the defense jobs to start. Cooper, Mackey, Williams and Townley took part in the triumph as the game wore on and the visitors were out.

GIANTS GET HURLERS

Western Football Is Tough

Which Statement Seems to be Somewhat Unnecessary.

By DAVIS J. WALSH,

International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — By this time it ought to be evident that the hope of eastern football is to get it hurriedly out of the state of California and then, firmly, relentlessly, keep it out. It has not more business there than a lamb in a bull pen and, the sooner teams like Pittsburgh, the Army and Carnegie Tech realize this, the better it will be for them and those who have to live with them for ever after.

Those who have to live with them number about fifty million people and it has always been my contention that not even that many Americans can be wrong. However, this estimate is now subject to revision. They are not wrong, except when their teams try to play football with Californians.

They grow them too big, too fast, and too many for us out there. If we have two good backs on a team, we thing we are affluent. If they don't have ten, they become enraged and go home and beat the wife and children. The man power, individually and collectively, has been unevenly distributed, leaving us no consolation except the hope that some day we might be able to win the band concert between the halves.

How About South?
It, therefore, is evident that eastern football must be saved from itself, in one way or another. The other way is unwittingly suggested by the coast itself. In California, everything that isn't west of Pike's peak, is east. Therefore, why not pick our eastern teams from the south, which has sent three invaders to Pasadena and hasn't been beaten yet? It seems to be a fine, old southern custom.

Perhaps the south plays no better football than the east but, to my mind, it plays more of it to the sixty-minute game. For real, spontaneous enthusiasm in a football game, commend me to those lads from below the Mason and Dixon line.

These are airy nothings and not to be taken too seriously, except in the east, where I hope they will be regarded as heresy and worse. The east needs more castor oil and less of the maple syrup that has been drooling off countless typewriters for countless years.

The diet, at least, should have been shifted to banana oil after what Stanford did to the Army and Oregon Aggies to N. Y. U. in the east last year. Instead, we went ahead this season and named eastern players for all American distinction. We admired its teams all year long.

Don't Go West Young Man.
But in the end it proved very ungrateful.

The least it could have done, in return, would have been to keep out of the state of California, thereby saving our sectional countenance. They are good men, out there, but they are not without their limitations. They never know what to do about beating a football team that won't play them.

This may not rebound greatly to our prestige but it at least will have the saving grace of preserving our illusions.

The heat? It had very little to do with the unbeaten Pitt team's 47 to 14 defeat by Southern Cal-

Sharkey Seeks Sun In Miami

Leaves Heavyweight Bout Plans All in a Muddle.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Jack Sharkey, leading contender for the world's heavyweight crown, was today enroute to Miami, Fla., with his wife, leaving behind a muddle over the proposed heavyweight bout at Miami on February 27th.

Briefly, the situation stood: Sharkey, under contract with Madison Square Garden until March 15, will not fight at Miami any opponent named by William F. Carey, president of the Garden corporation, on the ground that they are not "real contenders."

Unless the matter is "ironed out," Sharkey will take a long vacation in Florida, basking in the sunshine.

Next summer, in New York, he will meet Max Schmeling under the auspices of the milk fund.

At that time it was believed the New York ban on the German champion will be lifted.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, of Benton Harbor, Mich., is here and is understood to be trying to arrange with Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, for a bout at Chicago or Detroit, with Jack Dempsey being the opponent.

Negotiations were reported under way for a meeting between Primo Carnera and Vic Campolo at Miami on the February twenty-seventh date.

Carey and his friends tried their best to induce Sharkey to accept Gerald "Tuffy" Griffiths for the main bout but Sharkey would consider only Phil Scott and Vic Campolo.

THE GREATEST CHEVROLET
IN CHEVROLET HISTORY

Today, Chevrolet presents the Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History—a smoother, faster, better Six—with beautiful new bodies by Fisher.

Basically, it is the same sturdy, substantial Six which won such tremendous popularity in 1929. But it is a greater car in every way—for there are scores of vital improvements which contribute to comfort, performance, endurance and safety.

An improved six-cylinder valve-in-head motor, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower; four Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers; fully-enclosed internal-expanding weather-proof brakes; a new dash gasoline gauge; heavier and stronger rear axle; Fisher non-glare windshield; larger tires—

—these are typical of the many improvements found throughout the entire design.

But most impressive of all—this smoother, faster, better Six is available—

-at greatly reduced prices!

During 1929, more than a million three hundred thousand persons bought six-cylinder Chevrolets. This enormous volume has made possible many savings in the Chevrolet factories—and, in keeping with its long-established policy, Chevrolet is sharing these savings with the public. No written description can do justice to the extra value and quality provided in this new car. Visit your Chevrolet dealer—see this car—ride in it—and judge for yourself the sensational value it represents.
